

Swing Beast Momentum Strategy

Breakout Setup

Trading Breakouts

Breakouts are a welcome surprise but not the only way

Breakouts fail often, but when they don't they explode higher and rapidly

Breakouts last longer and go further than most people expect

They are characteristic of Bull Volatile trading

Ideal to trade with Deep Out of the Money (DOTM) options

The Setup

Same settings on the charts

SQN (100)

MACD (20-26-9)

You can add Volume to give you an idea when to exit

The Entry

After a first setup has triggered (MACD + Bull Quiet)

SQN needs to be rising and near the 1.70 level (bull vol)

A new area of consolidation forms also known as a High Base

That is a spike high, spike low, and a sideways range

Next we look for a breakout above range high with the candle closing above the range high

Buy at the close that day or on the next trading day

Price Action

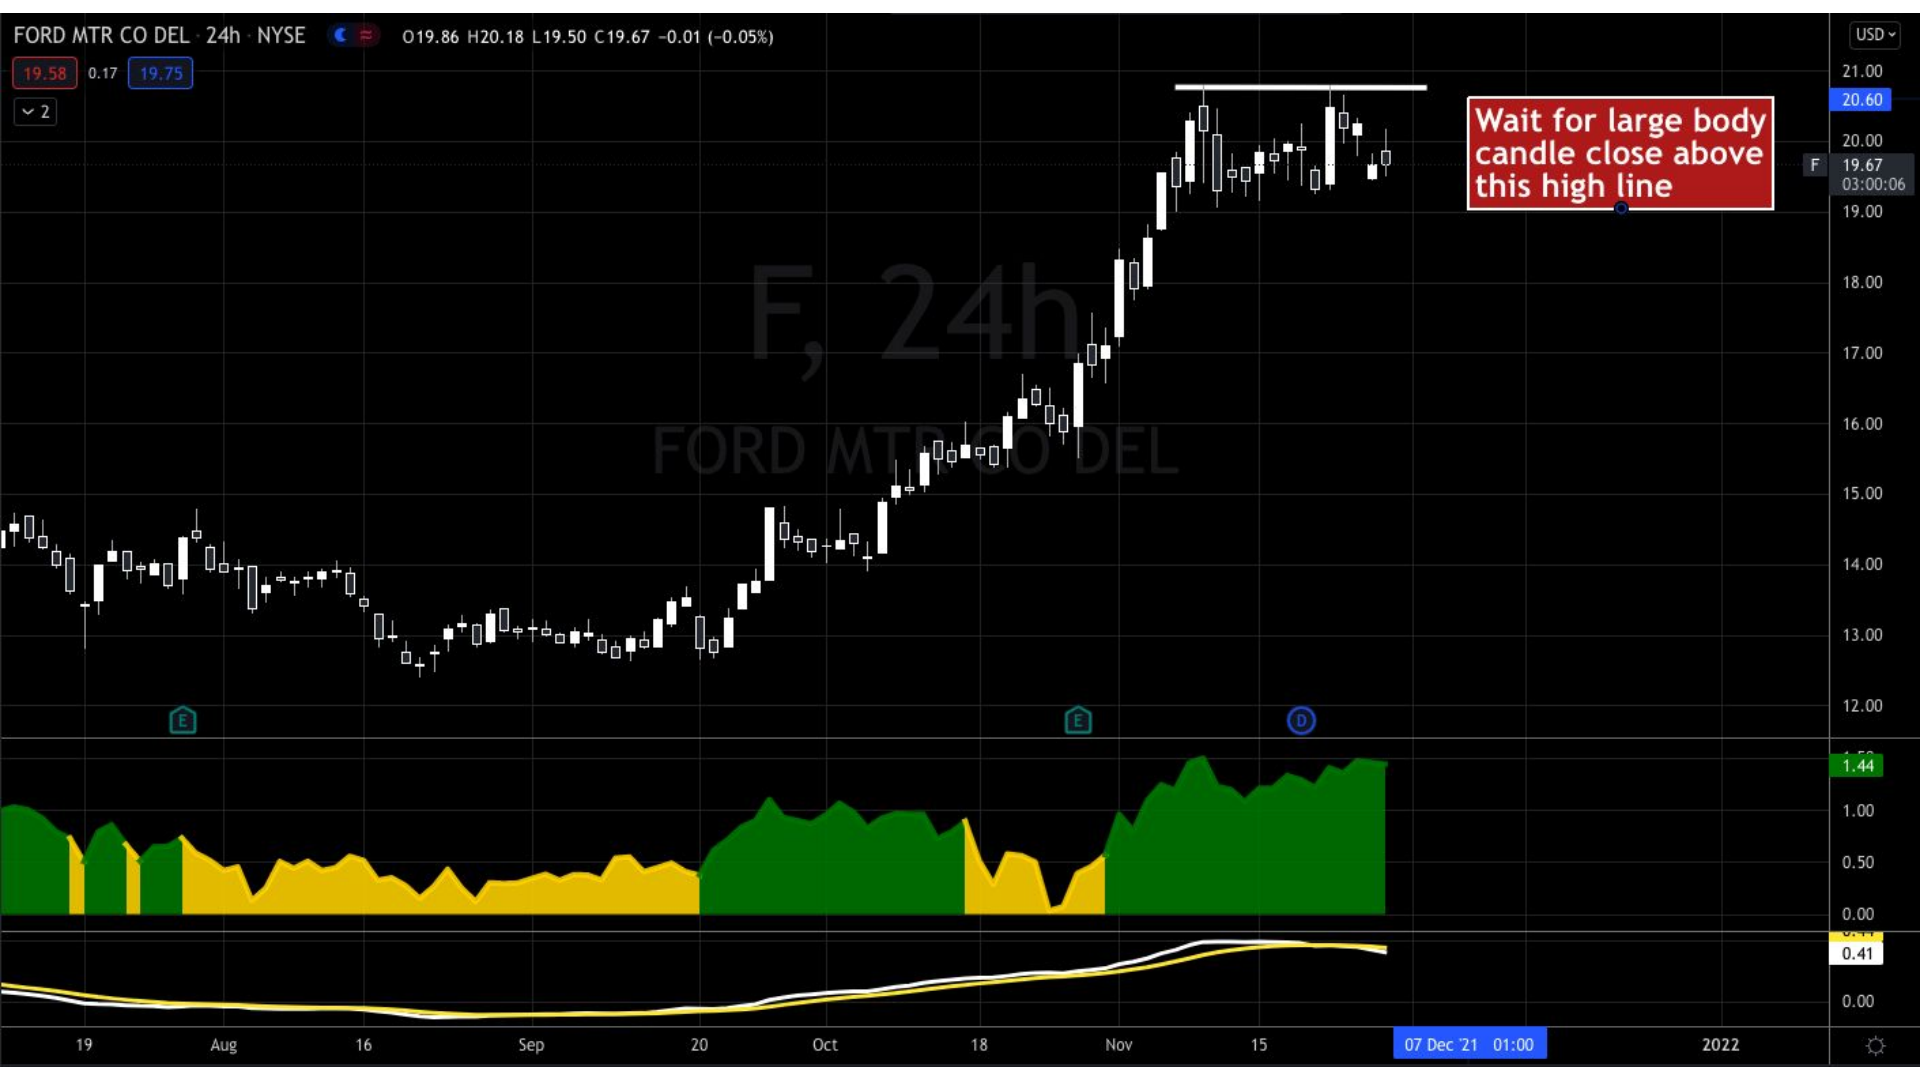

This breakout trade is price action based

We've already established we are in a bullish regime

We are transitioning from Bull Quiet to Bull Volatile

Bull Volatile price action is explosive, herky jerky, and behaves more chaotic

Traders chase the stock higher, then get stopped out and chase again
