

Day 7 — Strong vs Weak Levels (Filtering Skill)

Goal Today:

Learn to identify powerful levels

Remove weak, useless, and confusing levels

Build clarity like a professional

Why Day 7 Matters

Anyone can draw levels.

Profitable traders draw ONLY meaningful levels.

Too many levels = Confusion

Few strong levels = Confidence

Rule of the Day

Not all levels deserve respect

Some levels:

- Hold price strongly
- Create powerful reactions

Others:

- Break easily
- Trap traders

Your job today = separate strong from weak

What Makes a Level STRONG?

Mark a level STRONG if it has:

Multiple Reactions

Price respected it 2–3+ times

Sharp Move Away

Price moved away fast, not slow

✓ Big Candles Reaction

Strong bullish or bearish candles reacted there

✓ Clear Visual Importance

You can see it instantly without forcing it

✓ Not Too Close to Another Level

Space between levels = cleaner trades

Strong levels feel obvious, not forced

3 What Makes a Level WEAK?

Remove levels if they have:

- ✗ Only 1 small reaction
- ✗ Flat sideways candles
- ✗ Minor noise area
- ✗ Levels inside the middle of range
- ✗ Too many nearby levels

Weak levels break easily and confuse traders

4 Fresh Level vs Over-Tested Level

● Fresh Level (More Powerful)

- First or second test
- Stronger reaction probability

● Over-Tested Level (Weaker)

- Many repeated touches
- Orders get consumed
- Level becomes fragile

More tests = More weakness

5 Higher Timeframe Levels = Stronger Levels

Priority order:

Weekly > Daily > 1H > 15M

A Daily support is stronger than a 5-min support.

Institutions operate on higher timeframes

6 Chart Cleaning Exercise (Important)

Today you must REMOVE levels, not add more.

Step:

1. Open yesterday's chart
2. Delete:
 - Weak levels
 - Crowded levels
 - Useless lines

📌 Keep only:

👉 1–2 strongest supports

👉 1–2 strongest resistances

Clean chart = Calm mind

7 Learn to Ask This Question

Before keeping a level, ask:

“If I remove this level, does the chart still make sense?”

If YES → Delete it

If NO → Keep it

What You Should NOT Do Today

-  No trades
-  No adding extra levels
-  No emotional decisions

You are training filtering skill, not chasing profit.

Day 7 Homework (Mandatory)

Step 1

Open same chart from Day 1

Step 2

Reduce your levels to:

-  1 Strong Support
-  1 Strong Resistance

Step 3

Write answers:

1. Why is this level STRONG?
2. How many clean reactions happened here?
3. Why did I delete other levels?

Day 7 Mindset Rule

“My edge is not in more lines.
My edge is in better filtering.”