INTRO TO CORE TRADE MGMT

"Risk control is the most important thing in trading."
— Paul Tudor Jones

Professional traders are professional risk managers.

Risk Management is the process of measuring or assessing risk, and developing strategies to manage it. Professional traders are proactive about measuring, reducing, and eliminating risk.

INTRO TO CORE TRADE MGMT

Professional traders must understand and manage risk. If you do not understand risk, you are doomed to fail as a trader. If you do not develop and/or maintain the discipline required of a professional to manage risk, you are doomed to fail as a trader.

INTRO TO CORE TRADE MGMT

Risk Management is the holy grail of trading. Mastering this aspect of trading dramatically improves your odds of becoming, and remaining, a successful professional trader.

Risk Management is perhaps the easiest part of your trading plan to implement. Your discipline in executing your risk management plan will determine your success as a professional trader.

Implementing a consistent trade management plan helps your mindset by preserving your emotional capital, since you are merely executing your pre-determined trade management plan in an automatic manner, like a machine.

INTRO TO CORE TRADE MGMT

Implementing a consistent trade management plan helps tremendously with trade review, which allows you to isolate the trade management portion of the position to better analyze your trading results.

Proper trade management can make an average signal better, while poor trade management can make an average signal worse.
